Overview of College Services and Student Affairs Program Review Process

Program Review is a five-year continuous-improvement cycle. The framework is structured as a self-study to evaluate and enhance the quality, currency and effectiveness of your program and services. It provides the opportunity for thoughtful reflection, inquiry, goal setting, assessment and strategic planning. The objective is to engage faculty, staff, managers, students and peer reviewers in:

- Assessing quality, effectiveness, and alignment with Lane’s mission
- Building shared vision
- Meeting the needs of our students, college and community
- Identifying and understanding benchmarks and key performance indicators
- Understanding our operating environments, strengths, strategic issues and opportunities
- Developing strategies, goals and objectives for the future
- Evaluating and recognizing progress toward goals

Program faculty and staff develop a shared vision and understanding of their program and services then create a five-year strategic plan. This plan informs collegewide planning, resource allocation, projects and initiatives. Program Review is the primary mechanism to ensure the work of departments and divisions is optimally aligned with the college’s vision, mission and strategic directions, accreditation standards, employer needs, and relevant national, state and local benchmarks.

Steps of the Process

1. During the first year, program faculty, staff and managers begin the self-study. The process is based on inquiry and analysis using quantitative and qualitative data.
2. Once the team has completed the self-study process, a peer reviewer is invited to visit and provide external perspective and input.
3. The final program review document, including peer comments, recommendations, action plans, and goals and objectives, is submitted to the College Services/Student Affairs Program Review team and responsible executive administrator for feedback and response.
